TADAA Students Sharing about CADCA- J. Bautista, X. Barker, and K. Kessinger shared their experiences from attending CADCA in Dallas, Texas last summer. It was good to have the experience to visit a new area, large city, new culture, and meet kids from all the country. Many different urban cities with large sized schools much bigger than Klickitat and Lyle even with two schools combined. Lots of learning went on with public speaking, strategic framework, and how to assess, plan, implement, evaluate more data to ask the essential question Can it work again? Is it sustainable? What barriers are there to implement our strategic framework? Everyone knows each other, usually what people say "Doesn't stay in the room", hard to keep private things private. Even with that; issues are very similar even with numbers and cultures very different.
